

Student Action Plan Against Bullying!

Bullying affects everyone. Whether you are the target of bullying, a witness, or the person who bullies, it is something that impacts you, your peers, and your school.

Bullying can be stopped, but it won't just happen. You have to take action and develop a plan that works for you and your situation. This is your opportunity to change what is happening to you, or someone else, and make a difference. Start by creating your own plan to take action against bullying.

What You Can Do

The following steps will help you develop an action plan to address a bullying situation that is happening to you or someone else.

Step 1: Think about the bullying you have experienced, seen, or even done yourself.

Describe the situation, including where it happened, who was involved, what happened, and how it made you feel.

Step 2: Then consider how that situation could be different.

Include what you would like to see happen, how things could be changed, and what would help you feel back in control of the situation.

Step 3: Next, think about the steps needed to make those changes happen.

Consider what role you need to take, who would need to be involved, and what they would need to do. Once you have read through the steps, begin filling in your ideas to “My Personal Plan To Take Action Against Bullying” on page three.

Want Other Ideas to Help Think About Your Plan?

- Review examples on page two.
- Learn your state law. Visit StopBullying.gov and link to the interactive map.

Want To Do More?

Visit PACER's web sites listed on page four.

Your Action Plan Against Bullying! (Example Plan)

Step 1: Describe the bullying that's happening. Include dates, location, who is involved, and details of the behavior.	Step 2: Describe what you would like done about it. Think about how the situation could be stopped or prevented.	Step 3: What steps can you take to make that happen? Include who could help, what they can do, and what you can do.
Kyla is a 10-year-old girl with Down syndrome. A classmate is making fun of her speech.
Sometimes, when I talk, it can be hard to understand. When it happens, there is this kid named Jordan that imitates me, and he make a big production out of it. He exaggerates my words and then makes sure that all his friends hear it, and a lot of them laugh. It really hurts and makes me wish I didn't have to go to school.	I don't want to get anyone in trouble, I just want him to stop. It's hard when it feels like people are laughing at me because of something I can't control. I want to say something to him but it's not easy to do. I wish one of the other kids would stick up for me. Maybe I could talk with some of my friends and see if they would support me when this happens.	I am going to talk with my mom and ask her for ideas. I am going to ask my mom if we can go to my teacher together and let her know what's been happening. My friend Karla is someone who is always at my side. I am going to ask Karla if I can talk with her anytime when I'm feeling bad. When I feel ready, I want to prepare myself to say something to Jordan, but in the meantime I am going to remember that I have many people who care about me.
Nate is a 16-year-old boy who is tired of seeing his classmate, Jack, get harassed because of the way he walks.
Sam keeps calling Jack a "spaz." Everyone hears it, but nobody says anything. Sam thinks it's funny. Jack does walk differently, but it's because he has cerebral palsy, which affects how he moves.	Sam shouldn't use that word because it's offensive. I could talk with Jack about how he thinks I could help. Or maybe I could ask our teacher to talk about how words can impact the way we view people. I can say something to Sam, but it would need to be something that wouldn't make things worse for Jack. I could encourage others to say something, too. No one deserves to be treated that way.	I should talk with my guidance counselor and ask him what he thinks of my ideas. I could also ask him if there is anything we can do in class to show how much words can hurt others. If I can make a difference for Jack, then maybe others will figure out they can do something, too.

My Personal Plan to Take Action Against Bullying!

Step 1: Describe the bullying that's happening. Include dates, location, who is involved, and details of the behavior.	Step 2: Describe what you would like done about it. Think about how the situation could be stopped or prevented.	Step 3: What steps can you take to make that happen? Include who could help, what they can do, and what you can do.

PACER's National Bullying Prevention Center

PACER's National Bullying Prevention Center unites, engages, and educates communities nationwide to address bullying through creative, relevant, and interactive resources. PACER resources include innovative websites, downloadable classroom toolkits, student-led activities, and much more! Share these great resources with friends, parents, teachers, and other adults in your community.

Website for Parents and Professionals

PACER.org/Bullying provides administrators, educators, parents, and community leaders with the resources to raise awareness of bullying and provide education, including how students can take an active role in addressing bullying.

Resources include interactive websites, lesson plans, classroom toolkits, informational handouts, videos, petitions, and more!

PACER's National Bullying Prevention Month

October is National Bullying Prevention Month, sponsored by PACER's National Bullying Prevention Center. Tell your parents, teachers, and other adults about this event. Ask for their help in bringing information to your school or community.

Resources include contests, events like Run Walk Roll Against Bullying, petitions, opportunities to become a partner, live events, pledges, and much more.

Website for Middle and High School Students

PACERTeensAgainstBullying.org is a website created by and for teens. It's a great place for middle and high school students to find ways to address bullying, take action, be heard, and join an important social cause.

Website for Elementary School Students

PACERKidsAgainstBullying.org is a creative, innovative, and educational website designed for elementary school students to learn about bullying prevention, engage in activities, and be inspired to take action.

