

PACER'S WEWILLGENERATION™

STUDENTS JOINING THE BULLYING PREVENTION MOVEMENT

The WE WILL Generation

is an exciting initiative that, with the assistance of an adult advisor, builds student capacity for leadership, advocacy, and education to create safe and supportive school environments. Today's generation of students are informed that bullying is an issue that impacts them directly every day and they are ready to take action. What they need is bullying prevention education, support from adults, and a creative program that will give them the practical skills to be part of the solution.

The WE WILL Generation of students believes:

- Bullying is never an acceptable behavior
- Everyone deserves to be safe
- We all have a responsibility to look out for each other

Opportunities for Students to Get Involved

WE WILL Reach Out: Important information on ways to be supportive of peers who are involved in bullying situations.

WE WILL Speak Up: Creative resources designed to initiate conversation and discussion about what everyone can do to prevent bullying.

WE WILL Educate: Free, online curriculum designed to creatively introduce students to the dynamics of bullying and the important role that students have for intervention and prevention.

The Importance of Student Involvement

- Students often have an intrinsic understanding of their social environments and can exercise more “social leverage” with peers than adults.
- Students who feel ownership of their communities, and realize that they can make a difference, can be powerful influencers.
- In a model incorporating interaction, education, and conversation, everyone can learn powerful lessons about bullying and what they can do to prevent it.
