

Parent Documentation: Behavior Concern for Early Childhood (3 to 5 Years)

Directions: This sheet will help you track when, how often, and how long the behavior of concern lasts in order to communicate this information to a medical professional or medical hotline. Note: Any time you are concerned about your infant's behavior, you should call your pediatrician, a medical hotline, or other professional.

Chart for 24 hours - two times

Behavior of Concern	Date(s)	How Long? How Often? Record how long the behavior lasts. Keep track of the number of times per hour.	Parent Action Record who you contacted: child's pediatrician, medical hotline, or other professional.	Result Record the nature of advice, appointment, or referral. Document interactions with medical or help personnel.
Has difficulty playing or taking turns with peers
Seems unusually cruel to animals
Responds aggressively to shared attention
Belligerent behavior in response to change in schedule unexpected or unknown situation
Excessive fears; uses bad language to get control
Intentionally threatens to harm self or others
Excessively hyperactive; does not respond to or remember safety instructions
Exhibits dangerous behavior; starts fires
Other concerns				