EXploring Interests in Technology and Engineering

Attention middle-school girls with disabilities! Roll up your sleeves and prepare to get messy with science. EX.I.T.E. camp will have you exploring, discovering, creating, and challenging yourself to investigate the world around you through technology.

- Experience the excitement surrounding science, technology, engineering, and math.
- Hear professionals with disabilities talk about their success in technology fields.
- Learn through hands-on experiments, such as making ice cream, racing robots, and creating Floam™.
- Meet new people and have fun.

Is EX.I.T.E for you?

EX.I.T.E Camp is for girls with disabilities who:

- will enter 6th-9th grade during the 2008 - 2009 school year
- like science
- work well in a hands-on environment

When is camp?

Camp is Aug. 11, 13, 15, 19, and 21, 2008. See www.PACER.org/stc/exite/camp.asp for camp schedule.

- Opening and closing ceremonies are Aug. 7 and Aug. 21 respectively

What does it cost?

- Camp is free!
- Girls need to bring their own bag lunch each day and provide their own transportation to and from camp.

How do I sign up?

To apply, contact PACER Center, submit the information on the back of this flyer, or fill out an application online at www.PACER.org/stc/exite/Camp.asp

The deadline is May 1, 2008. Applications are accepted on a first come, first served basis. Letters notifying applicants of their status will be mailed in early June.
